Discussion Questions For “What’s the Message?” Lessons

Lesson 26

Questions

Imagine, if you will, that you are on a hike, and your leader has taken you on an offbeat trail. It’s very hot, and you’ve run out of water. What are you going to do? Complain to your leader? Isn’t that what most of us would do? Does it surprise you that the Israelites were no different? They complained, too.

Let’s suppose that your hike leader found a spring with a little bit of cool water that you could drink. So you filled up your canister and on you went. But now you have run out of food, and there is nothing in sight to help.

The people of Israel in the desert are so much like you and me. They wanted food and water, and complained when there was none to satisfy them. What was the lesson that they needed to learn?

Is it one that we need to learn, also? In what way would learning that lesson change your life?
